Adding new dimensions to doors

Visions of the seemingly impossible, just as the name suggests, these entrance doors will have everyone talking... and marvelling! Imagine glazed doors in which panels of timber, highlighted with subtle stainless steel accents, appear to float on the glass surface.

Select Victorian Ash is the timber and the "floating" panels are of mitred construction for aesthetic appeal and strength. These stile and rail doors represent superior craftsmanship at its very best, William Russell Doors having developed their own unique technology to bring these designs to the market.
